CONFEDERATE MONUMENT.

Subcommittee Selects the Figure to Be Reproduced.

The subcommittee of the Ex-Confederate Association met vesterday at the Planters Hotel and selected the figure for the monument to be erected at Springfield, Mo. Three figures in plaster were exhibited by the sculptor, G. Trevanovie of Washington, D. C. The one representing a figure of a Confederate soldier standing with arms folded was selected. The soldier appears with his hat off and his hair brushed back from his forehead. He is dressed in the uniform of a Confederate private. The coat is open at the neck, showing the edge of the light shirt. On his feet are boots into which the trousers are tucked. The figure will be carved in red Italian marble and will be of heroic size. It will rest on a pedestal about twenty feet high.

The sum of $12,000 will be expended on the monument, most of which has already been raised. Work will begin on the foundation at Springfield within a few days. The figure will be carved by the sculptor in Washington. The members of the subcommittee present yesterday were: Major Harvey W. Salmon of Clinton, Judge Leroy B, Valliant of St. Louis, Mrs. Jennée Edwards of Jefferson City and Mrs. J. Moore of St. Louis.

TEXAS AFTER THE TRUSTS.

All Corporations Required to Made Affidavits They Are Not Trusts.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 2.—The returns to date from corporations doing business in Texas, who were recently notified by the Secretary or State that they would have to make affidavits that they were not trusts or thembers of trusts to continue doing business in the State, has brought affidavits from 1.600 firms that they were not members of trusts out of 2.200 firms furnished with the affidavits by the Secretary of State.

Those not answering are corporations that have hitherto been looked upon as trusts. They have about seven days more in which to make the necessary affidavits, and in case they do not do so, there is a probability that an endless chain of suits will be filed against them seeking to eject them from the State.

Company Officials Blame Strike Sympathizers.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Dallas, Tex., Aug. 2.—Much excitement was caused on South Harwood street this afternoon by an explosion under the tracks of the Dallas Consolidated Electric Street Railway Company, as one of its cars passed over. No one was injured. The passengers were panic-stricken and fled. The street railway officials charge the explosion to strike sympathizers, and say dynamite was used. The union motormen repudiate any repropulability for themselves or their responsibility for themselves or their friends and urge a rigid investigation. Po-lice officials have failed to discover anything on which to make arrests, but are still investigating.

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 2.—This city boasts of the greatest pear tree in the West. It is located on the premises of Mrs. Schraag, No. 224 State street. It is 28 years old end for twenty years has been bearing pears, the average weight of which for the twenty years has been one pound. These pears have never brought less than 12 a bushel and the yield has varied from eight to fifteen bushels. Last year the yield was twelve bushels. The prospects are good for another big yield this year, but as the pears are only half grown it is impossible to make an estimate at this time. The tree stands thirty-five feet high and the longest branches are fifteen feet in length.

ple are in a fever of preparation for the coming annual session of the Northwestern Saengerbund, which meets in Eurlington, August 9, and continues to the 12th, inclusive. This is the nineteenth annual festival and will be one of the best ever held. The Saengerbund includes nearly all the German singing societies in Illinois, Wisconsin, lowa, Minnesota and Missouri, and these States will send about 100 societies, representing over 2,000 singers.

Some of the strongest of these societies will come from Chicago, St. Louis and Minneapolis. The president of the bund is Arthur Josetti of Chicago, and the vice president is Charles Richter of the same city. Joseph N. Kolz, the secretary, and Joseph Voelkel, treasurer, are from Burlington, and Theodore Rudolph Reese, the musical director, is from Davenport. Mr. Reese has been busy as a bee training and arranging the choruses, which are to participate in the fest. He has been on the constant move for over a month in this work, traveling many hundreds of miles from one town to the other.

A few minutes after she left the alarm began to ring. Miss Mary Henning, a roomer in the house, heard the bell and opened the door. Her astonishment was great when she found that the sound came from an old basket. Stooping down she looked closer and found the baby. It was clothed in a neat white linen dress, and by its side was a bottle of warm milk. There was no one in the house to take care of the child, and Miss Henning called a policeman, who took it to the Bethesda Home. There were no marks on the clothing or on the basket to indicate who the child's parents are. On the handle of the basket were written the words:

After the fire the owner sold the house for an insignificant amount, and the purchaser decided to remove it from its original foundation and give it a resting place on Bayard avenue near Page boulevard. A week ago the structure was started on its litherary. Thus far the distance of a vacant lot and a half city block has been traversed. Several nights ago it reached Aubert avenue and for two nights stood squarely across the street a few feet south of the Suburban tracks. The progress of the house at this particular point was about ten feet an hour, and as several hours were consumed in crossing the tracks it was necessary to operate late in the night in order not to interfere with the running of the street cars. Besides this, it was found that the gables of the house would not pass under the telephone and trolley wires; hence these had to be raised As this was not discovered until after the As this was not discovered until after the hours from 2 to 5 a, m. one night had been devoted to the work, the street was blocked completely for two nights.

In this time many amusing incidents occurred. An irishman with a healthy brogue was left as watchman while the other men engaged on the job of moving the house slept. First a policeman came along and

"Sure," said Pat, "Twe been troying all ay to move it. If you can do any better ou have moy consint."

The policeman walked along on his beat. A dozen or more teams drove rapidly north on Aubert avenue, only to come to a sudden stop as the outlines of the build-ing appeared before them. Then there were Ing appeared before them. Then there were arguments as warm as the weather.

"I tell you it is Aubert avenue," a man's voice would say.

One team of dashing grays sped up the street so rapidly that to prevent running into the house the horses had to be stopped so shortly they were nearly thrown to their haunches. The driver jumped out and ran to the watchman full of wrath.

"What do you mean by putting such an obstruction on a public highway? And why haven't you a got a light on it, anyhow?"

the country."

The apparatus by which the operation of moving was carried on consisted of a capstan, from which a long arm extended. This was placed some sixty feet ahead of the beautiful and the confidence of stan, from which a long arm extended. This was placed some sixty feet ahead of the house, then a system of pulleys and ropes were run from the capstan and attached to the building. Two mules were hitched to the arm of the capstan and in their perambulations about the capstan tightened the ropes and the house moved. The lad saw only the circling mules, and thought they were thrashing wheat in the good old-fashioned way down on the farm. The "dad" himself had heard while half asleep the cries of the muleteer urging his team to action, the screeching of the blocks and snapping of the ropes and the groaning of the timbers; and when he beheld with eyes half dazed with slumber the scene he didn't know whether he was in the barnyard, on the seas, or half-seas over.

Wednesday morning between 4 and 5 o'clock the house was midway across the tracks, and before it could be taken all the way across the early cars on the Suburban started east on their regular trips. They were blocked until 7 o'clock, and of course there was tall talking on the part of several hundred passengers who were due to work an hour or so earlier.

From this time on, however, the house will have easy rolling. When it will arrive at its destination, those fond of mathematics can figure for themselves.

the other rolls now in preparation.
When the commission left Stilwell, I. T., a great number of half blood Cherokees, who were unable to gain admittance at Stilwell on account of the pressing crowd, followed to Bunch and presented themselves for enrollment Monday. It took two days to enroll these people, and as soon as they were enrolled the commission was ready to but few responded to the notices. In fact, it was given out from full-blood headquarters that this class of citizens in that vicinity did not care to enroll.

The commission is now engaged in enrolling a few scattering full bloods who been to Washington, and upon his return the Indians held a powwow, and Muskrat advised them that he had learned at Wash-ington that the enrollment of full bloods would be considered by the Government as a vote on allotment, and that if the full a vote on allotment, and that if the full bloods allowed their names to be registered it would mean that they gave consent for allotment, and it would follow, but that, if they refused to be enrolled, then they would regain their former tribal courts, etc. This argument has misled the full bloods, who will soon see the absurdity of it and be rapidly enrolled.

HENRY NANKMAN ACQUITTED! Was Accused of Attacking Miss

Annie Haerring. A soiled red flannel bag about two inches wide and three inches long, which is reputed to have "voodoo" properties, has caused much trouble for Gertie Meck. Charles Gray and Harry Benjamin, three negroes living at Twelfth and Gay streets, now locked up in the Fourth District Police Station.

The "voodoo" token in question, according to Gray, has brought misfortunes to a number of negroes, and death to at least a half dozen persons. The strangest circumstance told in connection with it is that all efforts to lose it have proved further two described and beaten because she had ride on a transit company car.

Miss Hearring positively identified Nankeman. She said he was the first person to strike her when she stepped from the car asking her if she would ride on a "geab" car. She said he was joined by others, who knocked her down. That was the signal for a get-gal assault, and her clothes were torn from her. Other witnesses told of the assault, but could not positively identify Nankman.

Nankman has no lawyer, but several witnesses appeared in his defense. E. Tretterman, a druggist at Ninth street and Allen

MORE MONEY IN HENS. New York "Schoolmarm" Quits Teaching to Raise Chickens.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL, Middletown, N. Y., Ang. 2—Miss Green, a successful school teacher of Florida, Orange County, has abandoned her profession to conduct a hennery. Miss Green was led to embark in the new enterprise because she believed there is more money in it than the average school teacher secures for her services. She has secured a complete outfit and pro-poses to personally superintend the man-agement of the hennery. From present in-dications the friends of the young woman are confident she will meet with great suc-
